

Want to know about India and South Asia?

‘Australia's relationship with India [has] developed into one of our key strategic and economic partnerships in the region’

Senator the Hon Bob Carr, Australian Minister for Foreign Affairs, 17 April 2013

South Asia is a dynamic, important, complex region. It offers many challenges—and opportunities, including economic. While India dominates South Asia, other nations such as Afghanistan, Pakistan and Bangladesh, are important in their own right.

Dr Christopher Snedden, a politico-strategic analyst, author and thought leader on South Asia, offers an informative program called Strategic Issues in South Asia. It provides up-to-date information, analysis and observations about events in India and South Asia and how to successfully understand and deal with this region's people and its challenges.

The aim of all sessions is to inform attendees in an interesting, engaging and inclusive way about India and South Asia, both of which Chris is passionate about.

Session formats are flexible to suit your needs, but may include:

- ❖ As a keynote speaker at client or staff events or conferences, Chris can deliver a focused lecture about this region, or about a nation or issue in it.
- ❖ Where more formal and detailed learning about the region is required, Chris will deliver a 13-lecture series about South Asia, its nations and their issues.
- ❖ A team-building exercise (the Kashmir simulation) also is available.
